Decoys left unattended on Private land, Wet or dry

There is no known biological evidence that decoys left unattended would be a detriment to migrating waterfowl.

At present many states in our flyway allow decoys to be set for the entire season unattended.

Therefore let it be resolved at this Conservation Congress hearing being held in Columbia County, the 13th of april 2009.

That Conservation Congress send this to the Migratory Waterfowl Committee to be taken up at there next meeting and forward there recomendation onto the Dept of Nat. Resources for further Action

Thank You
