The following organizations have generously provided funding to help the Department cover the costs of printing the Wisconsin Land Legacy Report. All of these groups believe strongly in helping Wisconsin citizens understand the great wealth of biological and recreational assets of this state. Because of their generosity and desire to assist the Department in widely distributing this report, the cost of this document to the public has been substantially reduced. It should not be inferred that, by providing funds for the printing, each of these groups endorses the identification of every Legacy Place described here or concurs with all the information presented. Without their generous financial support, this report would not be available in its current form and could not have been as widely distributed.
